

ACTIVE NOTE CIRCULATION FAIR GREATER

Annual Report Of Governor Of Bank Of Canada Made Public

OTTAWA, Feb. 12.—(CP)—Active note circulation on Dec. 31, 1940, was $94,000,000, or about the same date in 1939, according to the annual report of the Governor of the Bank of Canada, made public today.

Actual volume of Bank of Canada notes outstanding at the end of 1940 was $100,000,000, an increase of $127,000,000 over the previous year. But some $7,000,000 in public holdings of bank notes and coins was a drop of $4,000,000 in public holdings of bank notes, leaving the net active circulation an increase of $94,000,000, the report stated.

NET PROFITS

Net profits on 1940 operations after providing for contingencies and reserves were $6,044,460 according to the report. The bank's capital stock of the bank, $30,000,000, is entirely held by the Dominion government in the name of Finance Minister Isley to whom Mr. Tupper's report is addressed.

Thus the entire net profit, after deducting $1,273,133 in order to bring the Bank of Canada Act is paid into the Rent Fund, goes to the Treasury.

More than half the increase in note circulation took place in July, August and September, and was due in part to a desire of some holders to have cash reserves on hand "because of nervousness inspired by war news," the report stated.

AMOUNT OF INCOME

The report estimated that the amount of income paid to Canada in 1940 was $2,500,000,000, or some 14 per cent—greater than in 1939.

On May 1, 1940, under an order-in-council passed under authority of the War Measures Act, the Bank of Canada sold to the foreign exchange control board holdings of foreign exchange to the value of $27,324,444 in Canadian money, and gold received $3,888,393 coupons valued at $23,772,887.

Since then the only foreign exchange held by the bank has consisted mainly of sterling held on account of the board or the Dominion government in connection with the government's program for securing of Canada's resources from the United Kingdom.

DOLLAR VALUE

At the end of the year the Canadian dollar value of foreign exchange held by the bank was $32,428,273.

Operations of the bank in 1940 yielded a net profit of $6,044,460 after providing for contingencies and reserves.

After deducting $225,000 for dividends, requirements on the bank's $3,000,000 of capital stock held by the Dominion government, the remainder of $3,819,460, was disposed of, according to the Bank of Canada Act, as follows: $1,273,133 going into the Rent Fund and the remaining $2,546,326 paid to the Dominion government for the Dominion of Canada.

The $2,546,326 left after providing for dividends was an increase of $2,180,735 over the previous year. The report said the increase was "mainly attributable to the rise in our security holdings."

PROVINCIAL SECURITIES

Investments of Dominion and provincial securities on Dec. 31 last were valued at $75,763,421, an increase of $4,960,000 for the year.

Accounted for by the purchase from the Foreign Exchange Control Board of $25,000,000 of Dominion one per cent notes dated May 1, 1940, and maturing May 1, 1941.

This purchase coincided with sale of the board on the same date of gold and foreign exchange of approximately the same amount.

Commenting on the security market the report said two "typical" long term Dominion issues were averaged 4 1/4 on Dec. 31, 1939, and at the end of 1940 had risen to 9 1/4, representing a reduction in yield of nearly one quarter of one per cent.

SAME NET CHANGE

Approximately the same net change occurred in the United States over the same period and in the United Kingdom and decline in yield was about one-tenth of one per cent.

Because of the first and second war loans the volume of Dominion issues in Canada for new money was "substantially greater" in 1940 than in any year since the First Great War. Domestic provincial issues were also above average.

But corporate bond issues for new capital or for repatriation of foreign obligations "virtually disappeared" and the overall volume of new money raised in the Canadian bond market was only moderately greater than in 1939.

Willkie Urges Republicans To Take Positive Stand In Fight For Aid To Britain

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—(AP)—Wendell L. Willkie declared Wednesday night that the Democratic way of life could not survive in the United States if it were vanquished in Britain, and challenged the Republican party to take a positive stand on, and lead in, the fight for aid to Britain.

"Have you got it in you?" he cried to a crowd of 2,500 persons attending a "Republican Night at the Club" 55th annual Lincoln Day dinner.

Willkie, just returned from a fact-finding trip to the British Isles where he conferred with persons ranging from the King to "the man in the pub," called Prime Minister Churchill "the man whom I think is the greatest public figure in the world."

ACCEPTS CHALLENGE

Arthur A. Ballantine, president of the club and former under-secretary of the treasury, said he accepted on behalf of the Republican party, Willkie's challenge, with which he closed his 20-minute address.

Ballantine told the 1940 Republican presidential candidate:

"You have transcended partisanship and that is the best news we have heard in a long time. We are up and given us vision, and now it is up to us to answer your challenge. We have it in us."

The Republican party, Willkie asserted in his extremely emotional, nationally-broadcast address, was born out of a sense of crisis. It was the reason for our coming into being—and he warned that if it had no higher destiny "than the desire of compromise and negotiation and failure and death," it would not survive.

GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY

"I doubt if in the history of our party any party had such a golden opportunity as presents itself to the Republican party tonight," he said. "It is not enough of it? Where is the Republican? Does not the world meet the challenge of this new day?"

He declared that "there is a party in power, not the Democratic party—the New Deal party—now out of the picture, because of its failure in winning elections and controlling policy in the government in connection with the government's program for securing of Canada's resources from the United Kingdom."

GLORIOUS PATH OPEN

"Here we are! We know what the international situation is and we know the necessities of a program to save this country."

"People of the Republican party, I give you this challenge in the year 1941: Have the will to lead the leadership to take America on the glorious path that is before us? I have no doubt that we have."

Willkie said Mr. Churchill had explained to him the British method of retaining in public office the most dedicated candidate.

Willkie added, with a laugh, that he had told Mr. Churchill that in the United States there was a convenient method of getting rid of such persons and aid further that he wasn't certain but that was best.

After his introductory remarks Willkie described Lincoln, Robert E. Lee and George Washington as "three great heroes" of the United States and declared that the one great quality they had in common was "magnanimity."

THREE GREAT FIGURES

Willkie extolled the qualities of Lincoln, Lee and Washington, and said that Lincoln, on his way to inauguration, travelled across "my home state of Indiana" and predicted that the picture of Lincoln as a man would be the picture of the nation today.

Of Lincoln, Lee and Washington, Willkie said:

"These are men, irrespective of politics, that all Americans should turn to as the three great figures of our public life, and the qualities that make them the heroes of this country are as much a compliment to the people of this country, as they are to the men themselves."

"The three of them had one common quality and that was the quality of magnanimity."

Discussing the history of American political parties, Willkie commented on the growth and ultimate passing of the federalist party and the resulting rise to power of the Democratic party under Andrew Jackson.

HIGHER DESTINY

Referring to the birth of the Republican party, he declared that we were founded to preserve freedom.

"And if we will but remember that, we cannot fail. But if we forget the why of our party—merely the party of reaction, merely those who had faith and who, in the critical moments of history, find nothing more to say than to promise, that great party will pass from the scene."

"I am here to speak to you tonight, to challenge you to a higher destiny than the destiny of compromise and reaction and failure and death."

"Here we are, at this moment, in this peaceful ballroom, un-

GERMANS WHO ESCAPE CAMP RECAPTURED

Police Possess Overlooked Fugitives Near Jumping Lake

CALGARY, Feb. 12.—(CP)—Cold, tired and hungry, practically "played out" after surviving a footsie blizzard during the night, two German civilian internees captured by a four-man posse shortly after midnight near Jumping Pond, 35 miles west of Calgary.

The men, Ottomir Grawand, 35, and Waldemar Gerhard Arthur Bruggemann, 31, were brought to Calgary R.C.M.P. barracks and a lodged in pending disposition of charges against them.

The captures were made by a posse consisting of Constables H. Hervey and G. Kennedy, Calgary R.C.M.P.; Forest Ranger James McLeod and Corporal Fred Gladstone, member of 190th Company, Veterans Guard of Canada, who is a guard at the camp from where the men had escaped.

Ranger McLeod and Corporal Gladstone actually nabbed the men, but the policemen were not far away, closing in on the fugitives in a minor movement to head them off to pay higher prices.

Despite their night in the open, in a blizzard, with temperatures dropping to 10 below zero, the men were in good condition but ravenously hungry.

Grawand, a farm laborer, and Bruggemann, a sailor, reported to have been captured on the German frontier last summer when H. M. C. S. Prince Robert seized it off the coast of Norway.

He said the "only way" to pay higher prices was by government subsidy or control of bacon production.

Mr. Gardiner discussed the better situation and said he saw no need for rationing in Canada.

Nazi Long-Range Guns Bombarding Southeast Town

LONDON, Feb. 12.—(BUP)—German long-range guns aimed at the French invasion coast shelled the southeast English coast for nearly two hours today.

The shells started dropping at 10-minute intervals in the early hours of this morning, and at 1:15 p.m. (10:15 a.m. M.S.T.) the bombardment was going on.

Mr. Manning was believed to have prevented offensive operations by British planes during the night, and there was little German aerial activity.

OTTAWA, Feb. 12.—(CP)—G. W. Spence, joint general manager of the Bank of Montreal, has accepted the government's invitation to act as chairman of the executive committee of the National War Loan Committee responsible for organizing the campaign for sale of the next war loan during the summer.

Returned Men

MELBOURNE, Feb. 12.—(AP)—The repatriation department of the Australian government is already assuming care of Australian soldiers sent home from the fighting fronts, finding jobs for them at the rate of about 12 per day and paying a subsistence ranging from $13 weekly for a man, wife and three children to $20 for a small number of men have been sent home.

Twenty thousand square miles of southeastern England are infested with grey squirrels, which do considerable damage to bird life.

Canadian Corps Pledges Support In War Effort

TORONTO, Feb. 12.—(CP)—Members of the Canadian Corps Association in annual convention here Wednesday passed resolutions congratulating the federal government on various developments in Canada's war effort and pledging support of the present or any other government in its attempt to augment the war effort.

Among items praised by the association were acceleration of the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan, increases in navy strength and the announcement that a feasibility study would be made by a tank brigade and an armored division.

Officers elected included: President, Lt.-Col. C. E. Reynolds, Toronto, and Capt. S. R. Paragharoon, Alberta, a vice-president.

NO INVASION NORTH ROUTE

BISHOP SAYS

WINNIPEG, Feb. 12.—(CP)—Bt. Rev. L. Fleming D.D., Anglican Bishop of the Arctic, Wednesday told interviewers here that he did not believe an invasion could be launched upon Canada from the Arctic.

"I am not a military expert, but I believe it would be extremely difficult for the enemy to invade Canada from the north," he said during a stop here while en route to Vancouver.

"In the first place, it would be necessary to bring in large quantities of supplies for invasion, and I do not think this could be done without our finding out. The Eskimo would report any landings in the north and there are radio transmitters at Hudson's Bay Company posts and government stations which would quickly relay the word to the authorities."

The "Pioneer Woman" statue at Ponca City, Okla., has been visited by more than 350,000 persons since its erection in 1908.

ITALO GENERAL BLAMES LEADER FOR ARMY ROUT

CAIRO, Feb. 12.—(AP)—Gen. Annibale "Electric Whiskers" Bergonzoni, captured by British troops in the sand dunes of Libya, Wednesday laid responsibility for the final Italian rout at Benghazi on Gen. Tedora, commander of the 10th army, who died of wounds suffered in the fighting south of that fallen port.

Gen. Bergonzoni said he had advised the immediate evacuation of Benghazi when straggling Italian battalions arrived there from Derna, but Gen. Tedora believed there was adequate time to retreat and decided to wait about 24 hours.

The British and Australian troops struck at Benghazi from the north and also trapped Italian attempts to flee to the south.

Bergonzoni said he was brought to the British camp at Benghazi when an Italian anti-tank gun backfired, Bergonzoni said.

Gen. Bergonzoni said he had been captured from Bardia. With 25 staff officers he said he

Ontario Premier Predicts Large Surplus Income

TORONTO, Feb. 12.—(CP)—Premier Mitchell Hepburn of Ontario said Wednesday night a provincial surplus sufficient to cover $3,000,000 farm subsidies is in sight provided the weather and the federal government do not interfere.

The weather factor relates to the operation of motor cars and snow removal costs. The federal government enters the picture in relation to liquor taxes.

"The amount of the surplus will be made known when we bring down the budget," the premier said. Right now its size depends on the weather."

The grain will return about $1,000 worth of war savings certificates, which he plans to allot $400 to himself, $400 to his wife and the remainder to a small son.

The wheat delivery for certification is being held against farmers' quotas and smaller volumes of wheat have already been used to purchase certificates in this area.

TODAY the Rose rink, Skip Billy, Don Bull, Bert Cumberland and all George Rink, are all sleeping in—or should be. They are northern Alberta curling champions and they will honor by dint of more hard work in three days than four average men squeeze into a couple of weeks or more.

The Rose also played three nerve-racking games yesterday within 10 hours—times just as tough as they are likely to encounter even if they win Alberta honors and enter the Macdonald series for the Dominion championship.

What is more, two of the rink, Don Bull and George Crook, were pretty sick yesterday with colds and throat trouble. Crook was so bad that he didn't get down to the rink until three ends of the Wednesday morning game but he played. Bull couldn't speak above a whisper. However they offered no excuses—just hunked in and played their damndest. It was too darn good for the best rink that Edmonton could send against them.

The hundreds of curling enthusiasts who watched the final yesterday at the Edmonton club were practically unanimous in the view that the Rose squad proved beyond question to be the best northern Alberta has to offer this season. If the southern Alberta champions can stop Rose and Company, the boys here will gladly rate them one of the best rinks to ever represent Alberta in the Macdonald series.

GENERAL IMPROVEMENT

Rating one year's change in the change of other years is an impossible task, for you can't get against a common measuring stick. However there is a definite improvement here in the general caliber of British Columbia that is self-evident. When we first started picking a rink to go against Macdonald River honors, there were several rinks in the province that could be considered serious contenders. This year there was Rose, Manahan, Cairns, McLaren, Slavik and Munro—six rinks between which there was mighty little difference in caliber.

That seems to be pretty substantial proof that there is a general improvement in curling ability around these parts—an improvement that you have every right to expect if practice and an early start in the game mean anything. Scotland may be the birthplace of curling, but it is not here on the Canadian prairies that the game has grown up to its present standard.

Umpires' Toes Are Forbidden Territory

MAINE everybody has been doing old Judge Kenneth Munro. Landis is an injustice for these many years. The shaggy-haired giant of baseball may have a sense of humor after all. He has just handed down a judgment of five large letter-written pages in which he suspends four officials of the Beaver Falls, Pa., ball club and fines the club $300 because Umpire Bugher's toes were trampled on.

The laying of hands—on feet—upon an umpire is a violation of the National Association agreement, he warned all ball players. He is known, cautioned the judge, "that a player who in protesting a decision steps on the umpire's toes, or pushes, shoves or butts the umpire, whether accidentally or intentionally, must be held to have earned all resultant nose bungs and other bruises."

Briefly, the trouble was: June 6, 1940, Bugher called a foul on a ball hit by a Beaver Falls batter in a game against Johnstown. The batter agreed it was close, but the next batter grabbed the umpire and yanking him around. Manager Frank Crook ran up and, he said later, "we started arguing and were pushing each other around, face to face, stomach to stomach; neither would give ground; our noses were rubbing and his (Bugher's) head bumped me in the face."

Bugher said he was trying to push Crook away, and if his head hit Crook's nose, he didn't mean to do it.

CALL IN THE COPPERS

The assault ended with Bugher being knocked down and getting a tooth knocked out. He was taken away in a police car after the game and then, according to Judge Landis' report, "two club officials decided to have him arrested for hitting Crook in the face."

That, said Landis, was "utterly false." The only thing that happened to Crook was that, in the course of his pushing and butting with Bugher, he may have gotten his nose bumped," observed the judge.

Crook was suspended for the 1941 season: R. J. Milliken, then chairman of the board of the Beaver Falls club, and R. J. Sipe, secretary, were put on the ineligible list for five years, and Club President Cusack was suspended for failing to protect and assist the umpire as the rules provide, was suspended for one year.

Landis found that Bugher's suspension by the league president after the incident was "wholly unwarranted and unjust" and ordered Bugher's salary paid from the date of suspension through to the end of the season.

Mary R. Thacker, McCreath Capture Figure Skating Titles

ARMORE, Pa., Feb. 12.—(AP)—Canadians won the ladies' and men's singles titles in the final of the North American figure skating championships on the Philadelphia skating club rinks last night.

Mary R. Thacker, 17-year-old Winnipeg girl, successfully defended her championship in the women's singles by winning the most of all six judges. Ralph McCreath, University of Toronto senior, came from behind in the final figure to win the men's title by eight-tenths of a point.

By a spectacular free skating exhibition, McCreath won more than a 21.2-point edge figure on the final of the title was decided on total points through the competition. The final result was McCreath 125.74, Turner 123.75, O'Brien 123.76, and Thacker 123.77.

Thacker skating club was lost to Miss

Thacker, 123.58 points to 1.400. Mrs. McCreath, also of Toronto, was third with 1.460. Joe Vaughn, Philadelphia United States National champion, was fourth.

Lester McCreath returned to win his second championship, the pair title with Miss O'Brien. The defeated Turner and Donna Aulick, United States Junior champion, were third. Jack McCreath, also of Toronto, was fourth.

NELSON BATTLES TRAIL SMOKIES TO 5-5 DRAW

NELSON, B.C., Feb. 12.—(CP)—Nelson Maple Leafs battled Trail Smokies in an even game for four periods here last night but the 5-5 overtime draw they earned failed to help Leafs and they dropped further into the West Kootenay Hockey League cellar as Kimberley Dynamiters won 6-5 from Turner Valley at Lethbridge.

Leafs took the lead in the first period when Syd Sturk and Jack Kinschick rapped in a goal each while Trail was held to a single counter by Bunty Dene.

Mike Buckner tied the score early in the second and Maurice Dwyer's goal gave Trail the lead five minutes later. But Algar counted for Nelson and the teams ended the period even.

Sturk put Leafs ahead early in the third and Algar tied it without putting one for Trail to force the game into overtime.

Jimmy Morris tied for Nelson and Algar for Trail in the extra period.

Defeat Manahan's Royals In First Thriller By 10-9

BY JACK KELLY
Edmonton Bulletin Sports Editor

IT WILL be Skip Billy Rose and Sedgewick rink who will represent northern Alberta in the British Consols finals at Calgary next week, the best of three series that will determine the rink to carry Alberta's curling colors into the Macdonald Brier playoff for dominion honors.

Rose won entry to the Alberta final yesterday when he defeated Cairns of the Edmonton club 11-5, McLaren of Alberta Avenue 9-5 and Manahan of the Royal 10-9.

The clash with the mighty Manahan was the payoff tilt of the Northern Alberta playdowns so far as Rose was concerned and it developed into the toughest game of them all.

Rose was leading 10-8 going home and Cliff Manahan started building for a big end with all the skill and strategy that a life time of curling has given him. When Rose went to the back to throw his last stone which was also the last one of the game, Manahan was lying four. To win, Rose had to play a draw and cut out at least three Manahan games.

It was a climax that couldn't have been improved by even a staff of movie writers. It was the payoff, an acid test of championship mettle. It was to be perfect—and it was. The stone drew in as accurately as if Rose had walked up and put it there by hand. It cut out three Manahan stones and made the Rose rink champions of northern Alberta.

Here is the score by ends:
Rose 300 201 400 100-10
Manahan 011 000 101 121-9

The blank fifth end was the result of one of the Manahan sweepers hitting Prince the rock with his broom as he swept it toward a clear house.

Tuesday Rose took a 14-7 defeat from Cairns of the Edmonton club and this forced an early playoff series. Wednesday morning Rose met Cairns again and this time he made no mistakes, winning 15-8.

Following this win, Rose went right back on the ice after a hasty snack of lunch and beat McLaren of Alberta Avenue 9-5. He then changed over to another sheet of ice and went into the game with the Manahan.

Here are the end scores for the first two games played on Wednesday:
Rose 001 001 104 101-11
Cairns 100 100 020 010-9
Rose 111 011 102 009-9
McLaren 000 200 010 010-9

Three Last Period Goals Give Leafs Win Over Canucks

Maple Leafs squeaked out a 5-4 win over the Canadians in a City Junior Hockey League game at the Arena on Wednesday night by scoring three goals in the last six minutes.

The Canucks had outplayed the Leafs for the greater part of the three periods until the break and were sailing along with a two goal lead with less than six minutes left when the damage hit.

Jim Pryde scored a penalty and he was off. Scotty Strindberg bugged a goal on Gregor's pass at 14:30. It was rather a long shot and while Blackman had tough luck on it, as he had just been stopping an avalanche of harder ones.

Wes Pringle evened the count with the help of Sweden with a shot from the wing which glanced off Blackman's pads into the net at 16:38 and Alex came through with the winning counter on a solo rush with just 42 seconds left to play.

The Canadians played really the best game they have shown all season and looked like winners until the last few minutes.

They took a one-goal lead in the first period at 11:30 on Chambers' counter and easily held the advantage for the rest of the first period.

Russ Klecko evaded matters up to 2:29 in the middle session, but Jim Mills came right back with another minute later. The Leafs were able to beat Blackman until 18:16, both teams being a man short at the time.

Chambers banged in another for the Canadians with Russ's help at 1:12 in the first period and when Buzz Johnson made it 4-2 at 7:52 it began to look like a Canucks victory and the Leafs were being booed.

The Maple Leafs however played their blitzy job as soon as they had a man advantage and it was all over.

It has also been decided that the guard of honor will be drawn up at the main entrance to the buildings and inspected by the governor.

In place of the guard will be a detail of R.C.M.P. on duty in the buildings.

AIDES-DE-CAMP

After formal opening ceremonies, the house is expected to adjourn on Friday when the R.C.M.P. will enter the chamber being accompanied by three aides-de-camp.

It is understood that the government is prepared to take any action which should there be a disposition on the part of the opposition to bring the session to a premature end.

14th Century Medicine Topic Philosophical Society Talk

"One cannot understand the present without a knowledge of the past and this fact justifies the study of medicine," said Dr. J. C. Brown, president of the University Philosophical Society, Wednesday night at the Medical building in the topic, "Medicine in the 14th Century."

Dr. Brown, who is the lecturer and founder of the department of medical history at the University of Alberta, presented a survey of university and particularly medieval education at that peak period in medieval progress.

Tracing the development of the university, Dr. Brown pointed out that the university is a result of the medieval period.

As a result of this situation, surgery had a hard fight to obtain recognition and the university was not the right to be called doctors, which resulted in the practice still found in England of a surgeon being referred to as "mister," Dr. Brown said.

Here Dr. Brown traced the development of the university and the university was not the right to be called doctors, which resulted in the practice still found in England of a surgeon being referred to as "mister," Dr. Brown said.

An outline of the training of a 14th century physician was given by Dr. Brown to illustrate the medieval period.

Recreation of students then present a curious contrast to those of the present day. Dr. Brown pointed out that the medieval period was a time of hunting and was considered to be suitable pursuits while murder, robbery and other crimes were held in high esteem.

It was not considered a disgrace to be a thief or a murderer, which was the case in the medieval period.

Glancing briefly at the "editorial knowledge as set forth by Hippocrates and Galen as it related to the students in the 14th century," Dr. Brown pointed out the fact that it was spoken of as "humor" medicine, with its four humors—phlegm, red bile, black bile, and yellow bile, each made up of varying proportions of the four elements—earth, air, fire, and water.

The medieval conception of curriculum was quite simple, the speaker pointed out. Foods are divided into kinds. Good foods are those that build up the body, while bad foods are those which bring about an evil humor. There may be also heavy or light, poor and best, being examples of the first, and cholerics or phlegmatic of the second.

The position of astrology and alchemy in the studies of a medieval physician in medicine were also described by Dr. Brown.

A church restriction on the shedding of blood, instruction in surgery in the universities was also described by Dr. Brown.

The students were called upon to attend the army and give service in the crusades, which was the case in the medieval period.
